

Company
Description

Comalatech is a global technology company with team members based in Canada, the United States, Australia and Spain. We develop top-selling apps for Atlassian products like Jira and Confluence, leading tools for software development and collaboration. Our products enhance team work for thousands of businesses across the world. We provide collaboration, document management, and agile solutions to organizations ranging from small businesses to Fortune 500's

Information

 Deadline: 2019-06-03
 Category: Business
 Province: Bizkaia

 Country: Basque Country
 City: Bilbao

Company*Comalatech*Main functions, requisites & benefits*Main functions

We are looking for a software Product Manager to help us define and build the trusted products Comalatech is known for. You will be the voice of the customer, ensuring our apps meet their needs, but you will also prepare and strive towards strategic goals that drive development of future products and releases. Your responsibilities will include: Working together with the product team to define upcoming features Creating, presenting and defining business cases for new features and products Conducting detailed market research to ensure our products remain competitive, and to determine possible future products and improvements Representing the company's products to external prospects and partners Preparing and proposing roadmaps for our existing products Distilling customers' requirements and needs from existing support tickets, to identify potential opportunities for our apps Prioritizing and discussing backlogs with our development teams Making sure that the company strategy and customer needs are aligned; "maximize outcome and impact" of every enhancement Reviewing our apps' documentation, finding improvement areas, and producing better products listings Communicating with the marketing and business team about the state of next releases Quantify the products; identify the right metrics to get helpful insights

Requisites

- Excellent English written and verbal skills – communication is king.
  - BA/BS in Computer Science or similar degree.
  - Having an eye for UI
- Bonus Skills and Qualifications: • Experience in a software product company • Experience with tools from the Atlassian ecosystem

Benefits

Being a Comalatechie means joining a team that is dedicated, innovative, diverse, and above all fun. Think you would be a fit in our unique culture? Check out our current openings below.

Competitive Salary

We respect the cost of living of our globally distributed team. We pay a competitive salary relevant to your location.

Collaborative Spirit

At the core of Comalatech is a dedication building great online collaboration tools. We don't just create these tools, we use them every day to communicate with our team.

Paid Training Assistance

We want team members who are motivated to learn. To that end we will contribute to approved training courses, seminars, and