

Company Description

Comalatech is a Global Technology Company with team members based in Canada and Spain. Founded in 2007, our steady profits have been reinvested into organic growth alongside meaningful charitable contributions. We are big enough that you'll have room to grow with us, but small enough that you can still make a difference. We develop top-selling apps for Atlassian products like Jira and Confluence, leading tools for software development and collaboration. Our products, including the award-winning app Comala Document Management, enhance teamwork for thousands of businesses across the world. We provide collaboration, document management, and agile solutions to organizations ranging from small businesses to Fortune 500's.
