Main functions, requisites & benefits*Main functions

We have recently developed a novel metaheuristic methodology for optimizing the distribution of atoms and vacancies in solid-state materials. Our approach is currently programmed in the package Julia and has been tested in the solid-state electrolyte LLZO. The researcher will rewrite/reformat the code, as well as write a manual to share it with the wider community. He/she will also investigate the optimal set of parameters to maximize the algorithm's performance, and work on the implementation of additional features.

Requisites

M.Sc. or B.Sc. degree in Mathematics, Statistics, Computer Science and related disciplines. Good interpersonal skills. Demonstrated ability to work independently and as part of a collaborative research team. Ability to effectively communicate and present research ideas to researchers and stakeholders with different backgrounds. Fluency in spoken and written English. Solid programming skills in Julia. Candidates without specific knowledge of Julia but excellent skills in structurally similar languages such as Python, MATLAB, C++ or Ruby may be considered. Background in optimization methods. Specific knowledge in metaheuristic techniques such as simulated annealing or harmonic search is highly desirable. Experience with molecular dynamics codes (GROMACS, LAMMPS, etc.) is desirable.

Benefits

The gross annual salary of the Fellowship will be 18.450€-28.000€ Contract: 12 months (extensible) It will then be on your own responsibility to make your yearly income declaration at the Bizkaia Treasury Agency.
